

Bruno

Bruno is one unlucky-lucky dog. Handsome, smart, and funny, he was born in Mexico surviving on the streets as a young pup when he was hit by a car. He sustained a serious shoulder injury. That's when his luck changed. Rescuers came to his aid, tried to fix the shoulder, and got him into our rescue here. He eventually needed an amputation but is now pain free and a happy dog in his foster home with a special canine friend that keeps him company. A legacy from his past, Bruno is fearful and cautious around new people but with time and patience, he will warm up and be affectionate. He is currently working with a trainer and taking nose work classes to build his confidence. He would do best in a calm, quiet all adult household. A friendly, balanced doggie friend to live with would be ideal.
