

Hagrid

Hagrid is a very charming 1 year old St. Bernard. He is a very sensitive young man He loves animals...he especially has enjoyed watching confined chickens, geese, rabbits, goats—up close and personal. He is very curious about other dogs, and sometimes forgets his training when he sees them on walks. He's leery of strangers he meets on a walk...until he has the opportunity to learn that they can be trusted.

Hagrid likes stuffed toys with squeakers in them, which he will use to tell you all about it. He loves to snuggle and enjoys sleeping on leather couches to keep cool through the night. He is not crate trained but is fine being left alone in the house...he may, however, chew on a shoe of his favorite person if left alone with the available shoe...he misses his human so much! Hagrid needs a home with a fenced yard (not invisible/electric fence) and a person or family that does not need to leave him alone regularly for long hours. He has lived with 2 other dogs, so might enjoy a doggy companion in his forever home. And while he has not lived with cats, he has enjoyed the ones he has met. (Hagrid is currently unneutered; adopter will be required, under a monitored contract, to neuter him by a specific date.)
