

Macy

Sweet and sassy Macy is 7 weeks old and will probably be about 30-35 pounds when grown. ( Best guess) She is a very confident, intelligent, and active little girl who loves her toys and playing with the other dogs in the house. Macy has a mind of her own and will need firm but calm guidance, lots of attention and training. She is very active and brave so she will need to go to puppy class and then she would bloom with an active owner who will challenge her by taking her to lots of classes and maybe even get her involved in dog sports as she gets older. She gets along with other dogs but will need continued socialization with dogs and people as she grows. She has her sweet side and enjoys a good cuddle too. Macy would do best in an all adult home or a family with children 10 years old and up. Since she is so young, she needs to go to a home where someone is around most of the time. She will be available for adoption when she is 8 weeks old and will go to her forever home after her first vaccination. Hurry and get your application in now.
