

Noel

Noel is a cute little miniature pinscher mix who is looking for her forever home; she is 5 or 6 years old. This cute girl loves attention and belly rubs and would love to have a fenced yard (not invisible/electric fence) to run around in. She is a sweet, curious dog. She loves to cuddle with her humans—next to them on the couch or in their laps. At night she prefers to sleep in a dog bed on top of her human's bed.

Noel enjoys the company of women and children-- she is afraid of most men so keeps as much distance as she can from them. Consequently we are looking for a home without men for her. She previously lived with 4 other dogs and currently lives with one, so we think she would be fine sharing a home with another dog...especially one around her size. We do not know how she is with cats...she's had no experience with them.

In the past Noel did not have many experiences outside of her home, whoever adopts her needs to patiently give her the time she needs to become comfortable with new situations. She hasn't spent much time walking on leash, but with an established routine she is becoming more confident with it.
