

Princeton

Princeton (Prince) is a sweet and energetic Doberman Pinscher guy--nearly 5 years old. He is affectionate, a little needy and playful. He likes to cuddle with his humans...he thinks he's a lap dog.

He's a large (90 lbs.) strong dog so leash walking needs to be done with a no pull harness (leash attachment at the chest). He can be crated for short periods of time, but has been good when left alone loose in the house.

As is true for most of his breed, Prince is a great watch dog. He has led a somewhat sheltered life, so needs someone who can help socialize him to be less distrusting of new people and dogs. We think he is not the dog to share a home with a cat and he has no real experience with young children, so he will do best in a home with respectful children 8 or older or an all adult home.

Prince definitely needs a home with a fenced yard (not electric/invisible fence) and needs a person or family that doesn't need to regularly leave him alone long hours.
